PROJECTS

Developing E - commerce Web Application with Spring Boot and Microservices

- Designed a high-level architecture using Spring Boot, encompassing various services for users, administrators, app maintainers, and sellers. Created REST APIs for seamless communication, involving complex join queries in SQL databases, with results displayed on the Themelyf frontend. The site supports multiple currencies, distinct views for different roles, and an admin summary page.
- For the microservices project, designed core modules and developed an react frontend. Implemented diverse categories and sections, ensuring a rich user experience. Employed password encryption, Spring's role-based authentication, and wrote unit tests for APIs, contributing to a scalable system. Successfully integrated a PayPal gateway for secure payment processing.

Gym Website using html CSS JavaScript and bootstrap

- Website for the fitness center, highlighting services and offers to attract clients. Includes contact details and a convenient membership form for interested individuals.
